Hostesses in Short Supply At Gulfport

Mrs. Donna Baird, who for more than eight years has guided the activities of the Memorial Hospital Gift Shop, says hostesses are now in very short supply.

"We realize, of course," explained Mrs. Baird "that our ladies have many home problems following the storm. We believe, however, our greatest problem is that of lack of communication. Few phones are in service. Many people have moved to another address and we do not know how to get in touch with them."

Plus, however, volunteer workers, enable the Hospital Gift Shop to make sizeable contributions each year to the hospital. Many articles carried in this unique shop are made locally and sold on consignment thus making it possible for many older people and also others wishing to work from their homes to add substantially to their earnings.

Mrs. Baird said: "I surely hope we can establish communications with our hostesses through the columns of the Sea Coast Echo. We are also running out of some items supplied locally, although we do have a number of very attractive gifts for sale at modest prices."

CLEAN UP

There will be a "Logtown Cemetery" cleanup on Saturday, October 25th. Anyone interested in helping with this project, should meet Mrs. Roy Baxter at the cemetery on that day.

A WAY TO OVERCOME NATION'S ILLS

Many of our nation's social and economic ills seem to arise from the alienation of persons who are frustrated in their attempts to achieve their economic, social and vocational potential. Overcoming this alienation is proving to be a very difficult and complex matter, although everyone who is sincerely trying to improve educational opportunities or to create a new climate of brotherhood is striving at what are undoubtedly the roots of the problem.

National Vocational Guidance Week focuses our attention on a group of men and women whose total professional efforts are dedicated to solving this problem before it arises. They are the vocational guidance counselors in our schools, industries and government agencies. Helping young people discover the jobs for which they are best qualified is just one part of their work. The all-important concept they try to put across is the value of long range planning, including education and training, in order to reach vocational goals.

We can show our support for this vital profession by putting interested young people in touch with the guidance counselors in our community. It can also be our way of helping President Nixon achieve his goal of "providing for every American an equal chance to go as high as his talents will take him."

Emergency Council Begins Development Program Study

A comprehensive analysis of the development needs and potentials of Mississippi's hurricane-hit areas has been completed by the Governor's Emergency Council. E. L. Brummett, Council Chairman, revealed last week that the fact-gathering and analytical work already is in progress, with the completed report and recommendations to the Council due December 31.

Meta System, Inc., a leading national team whose members have extensive experience in preparing regional plans and programs, has been employed to perform the first and broadest in a series of region-wide developmental studies. In the more detailed studies to follow, other private firms, state agencies and the universities likely will be used, the Chairman said.

The Council spokesman stressed that existing bodies of data and studies, notably those conducted by or for the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, the Mississippi Planning and Development Center, the U.S. Corps of Engineers and other federal agencies, will not be duplicated but will be utilized fully to the extent that they are relevant to the new work.

"This first study is the most important one in the comprehensive series," Brummett explained, "because its functions are to determine the logical limits of the region's vast potentials, to relate these to existing and likely future trends in the nation and the world, and to suggest which lines of development effort should receive priority." The Governor's Emergency Council is charged with responsibility for establishing priorities in the application of federal and state resources to the development of

Heavy Losses Of Saw Timber, Pulpwood

An on the ground survey by the Southern Forest Experiment Station indicates that about 1 1/2 billion board feet of sawtimber and slightly less than a million cords of pulpwood were lost to Hurricane Camille, according to the Governor's Forest Disaster Salvage Council.

By way of comparison, last year Mississippi harvested 1.1 billion board feet of sawlogs and about 3 million cords of pulpwood.

A total of about 1.8 million acres of commercial forestland over a 12 county area was affected to some degree, two counties on the coast, Harrison and Hancock, and two inland counties, Pearl River and Leflore, received heaviest damage, the survey showed.

Pines did not appear to be any more vulnerable than hardwoods. The portion of timber damaged in each species group was approximately the same as the volume present in the inventory.

Three-fifths of the damage to pines was breakage with wind-throw accounting for the remainder. The majority of hardwood damage was blown completely down, according to the survey.

Meeting Tonight Will Discuss Aid Programs

County Agent John W. Smith told the Sea Coast Echo Tuesday that he had been contacted by a number of people in the county relative to calling a meeting of landowners to discuss available programs to help in needed rebuilding.

Continuing the County Agent said, "There will be a meeting Thursday night, October 23, beginning at 7:30 in the North Central School which will be attended by representatives from the Farmers Home Administration Office, the A.S.C.S. Office and the Forestry Office to answer questions pertaining to assistance which is available."

"A discussion will be held on timber problems and it has been suggested that we select a committee of five people to work with other agencies in efforts to get as much aid as possible."

Jackson Reports

By State Senator Martin Smith

The special session of the Mississippi Legislature adjourned after adopting some of the most far-reaching programs to be considered by the body in some years. The primary purpose of the Governor's call of the special session was the enactment of a Medicaid program. After a great deal of study by the Public Health Committee of both houses, a program was enacted which will provide medical care for some 200,000 categorically needy. The funding of this program by the state in the approximate amount of 8 million dollars will bring in approximately 33 million federal dollars on a 85% - 15% matching basis. Under the program, no person will be eligible for medical who does not qualify for one of the welfare programs now in operation in our state. These include those receiving aid to the blind, old age assistance, aid to dependent children and the permanently and totally disabled. It does not add any new categories of recipients. It is hoped that through study of the Medicaid programs enacted by other states, Mississippi has been able to avoid some of the pitfalls they have experienced in this field.

The legislature was again presented this matter of enactment of a highway program. However, the program under consideration this time was a much more realistic one, with a total bond authorization of 300 million dollars rather than the 580 million dollar program which was defeated at the regular session last year. The so-called "designated bill" of last session, which directed which roads were to receive improvement, or "funding," and which, in my opinion, was a political ploy, is now without effect. The priority for the highway program is now based on the criteria for "designated roads" on the floor of the Senate. I offered an amendment which provided that the money for the highway program would be spent without regard to the old designation bill. Although considerable effort was made to delete my amendment, those efforts failed, and it is now a part of law. With that amendment, every area of our state is eligible to receive highway improvements if they can meet the criteria of traffic count, economic factors and other like tests. The determination is now made by the unanimous vote of all three highway commissioners applying these criteria -- a further requirement which should assure all areas of the state of consideration. There were some of us who felt that a highway program could be had without an additional gasoline tax. I joined with others in the introduction of a bill which would divert to the highway fund the sales tax presently being paid on gasoline and petroleum products. The Senate Finance Committee, which had this bill under consideration, brought the bill out favorably, but we were unable to get the needed three-fifths vote for passage. While I opposed the one cent gasoline tax which passed -- as I had opposed the one and one-half cent tax of last session -- the measure passed the Senate by two votes more than needed. It is my sincere belief that if we are to have a highway program, this one contains as many safeguards as can be enacted.

County Agents Notes

Lime is the foundation on any good fertility program in that it makes major and minor plant food elements more readily available to crops.

Lime also prevents the accumulation of poisonous amounts of manganese, aluminum and certain other elements in the soil. It increases the availability of soil and fertilizer phosphorus and the micronutrients, molybdenum.

Dolomitic lime supplies calcium and magnesium to the soil. It helps conserve potash by reducing leaching losses.

This is a good time of year to take a look at your crops and yields and see if there are any symptoms of lime deficiency. Look for stunted plants, skippy stands, plants with inadequate root systems and plants that will easily between showers.

The best way to determine the lime needs of your soils is to have a soils test made. Then when the results of your soils test come back from the State Soil Testing Laboratory, apply the needed lime any time the land is dry enough for spreader trucks to get over it.

FALL PLOWING FOR SOYBEANS

"I would like to see fertilizer spreaders following the combine through soybean fields," is the statement made by an Extension Agronomist.

What he is saying is that fall is a real good time to put out the needed fertilizer and lime for next year's crops. After the fertilizer has been applied, the land should be plowed deeply. This recommendation does not apply to land that is subject to erosion.

Fall plowing gives several advantages. These include the graining of time next spring when the land may be too wet to work and time is short.

Deep plowing in the fall will help break up hardpan that restrict root development. It allows the land to capture and store up more water during the winter rains.

Increased Production of Pulpwood

Local Paper Company has increased its pulpwood production in south Mississippi according to R. S. regional manager of the Gulf Woodlands Division. The company's 1969 production of pulpwood in south Mississippi is running at 11,000 cords per week.

Availability of labor and the availability of transportation to move the wood to Company mills are the two major factors limiting greater production. Production will be increased further and maintained at the highest possible level for as long as the damaged timber is usable and as these problems are overcome or minimized, Andrews said.

For part of its salvage operations the Company has established temporary wood yards at Sea Glen, Lake Shore and the Mississippi Test Flight Facility in Hancock County, Hillsdale in Pearl River County and in Pearl River County and in Pearl River County. A temporary log storage area has been put in use near Perkinson at Tan-Mile. At the Company's forest products complex under construction at Wiggins, water spray facilities are being rushed to completion. This will enable salvaged timber to be preserved until operations begin.

The Company is cooperating with the Governor's Forest Disaster Salvage Council and every effort is being made to salvage storm-damaged timber from the lands of independent tree farmers as well as Company timberlands.

Contractors Use Female Flagmen

A number of women have been employed by the contractors in the clean-up work. They work as flagmen aiding in traffic control where the debris laden trucks come out to the main roads and streets.

Two of these flagladies are Mrs. Doris Mitchell and Mrs. Stella Mitchell of Picayune who drive over every day to begin their work which begins at dawn in the morning and lasts until six thirty in the evening.

Mrs. Mitchell say the ladies usually work in pairs and receive $1.65 per hour for their efforts. Those flagladies were working on Beach Boulevard between Nicholson Avenue and Washington Street.

They said the work is routine and they have no difficulties although weekend night-seers provide for more work. The several contractors have employed women from Picayune, Sibley, Lake Shore, Pearllington, Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

them that truck and darn if you don't drive it home.
It was very hard to please all of his customers by the type of truck or car they need because he

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L. S. (Doc) Elliott

Fishing is improving right along. Fish are being caught most everywhere. Bull croakers have arrived and are being caught along the shore line from Bayou Boland to Red Fish Bayou and in the water hole at Campbell's Bayou where it runs into Pearl River, north of the L&N bridge. Spackle trout are running along the seawall down Cedar Point and at the mouth of Jordan River. Both the croakers and speckles are good size. The speckles are being caught mostly with live shrimp and artificial baits, preferably the Shad Rig. Some fishermen use a small piece of shrimp on the shad rig. Live shrimp can be gotten at Campbell's ship yard out Main Street.

Speaking of shrimp they are plentiful. They run from 2 to 5 inches and are selling from 85¢ to 90¢ a pound. Rather expensive to feed to fish or for eating. But they are delicious when boiled or fried. Some fishermen are catching their bait shrimp with a cast net off the seawall. Wish I knew how to use one.

Have heard a lot about not eating fish and crabs caught since the hurricane. That's stupid in my way of thinking. How can the water be contaminated or bad when our tides rise and fall each day, bringing in good water and taking out the bad.

One of our local fishermen getting his share of speckles is Emile Schindler who has been getting them off the seawall in Cedar Point. Emile can be seen anytime he can go. He is an oldtimer at the game and goes early and late when conditions are right.

Brother Perre and Donald Strong caught 71 speckles last Friday off the seawall down Cedar Point way. They had a ball as they put it.

Geo. Seuzeneau, Jr., told us there is no fishing on the Highway Bridge until repairs are completed. Rather tough on those who fish from the bridge, especially when the fish are biting like mad. There will be plenty time for this kind of fishing later.

John Israel has been getting his share of salt water fish lately. John loves to fish and goes on every occasion. His favorite is to fish.

Chas. L. Bowman with the Fear-Non Adjustment Service has been enjoying a little fishing on his time which is not too much. Chas. is a busy man right now.

Was a pleasure to meet Frank Blanton. Frank does all kind of fishing and plays golf. He told us of catching Australian perch which were stocked in a local pond. The perch weigh 2 to 2 1/2 pounds. Would like to tie them with a fly rod.

Was glad to talk to Tom Karl, after about 15 years. Same old Tom. Used to fish together in those days.

Albert Delatte better known as (Noobey) does quite a bit of fishing. One of his fishing partners is Kynard McArthur. Together they catch their share of fish.

A real fishery was held at Norm Benigno's Bar last Thursday night. The fish was fried by Liz Lator and Louisa Compton was entertainer. Among those present were Emile Schindler, Big Mamma, Lola Rosequist and others. A good time was had by all.

Alden Mauffray and Sylvan Lador made a nice catch of bull croakers and speckles last week. The world series and catching bull croakers happen each year at the same time. Both will be over this week.

With cooler weather setting in trolling for speckles should start up Jordan River and other places soon. It's a lot of fun catching them. Most anyone can troll. It's easy. All one needs is an outboard motor, boat and a few plugs.

Now that the first part of the three segments for dove hunting is over hunters are hoping that the two remaining parts will be much better. Practically few doves were killed according to those going after them. The second part of the season opens on Nov. 3 and remains open to sunset Nov. 30. Doves come south with cold weather. The second and third parts of the season should furnish some good shooting.

It has also been too hot to hunt rabbits and squirrels. Both of these animals were effected by the hurricane as well as quail. Food for squirrels will be scarce and a lot of rabbits were drowned by high water in Hancock County which also destroyed a number of young quail.

Better clean and oil that gun if it came in contact with salt water. Salt water rusts most metals. Plenty of outboard motors were ruined from under water.

Remember when driving. Glasses effect vision when they have been emptied several times.

Fresh water fishing is picking up gradually. Trolling for green trout should be good shortly. Believe it or not on warm days during the winter, bass can be caught on surface baits and plugs.

Kinder dishes to go up Jordan River and not see Ben Hille's boat house, the Show Boat and other familiar places. Hurricanes have no regard for anyone or any place. Have been up as far as Necoles Crossing. Trees, barns, houses all took a beating.

Hard crabs are being caught all along the seawall and up Jordan River. Caught some while fishing on the bottom. A couple of crab nets will catch enough for the whole family. Save the fish heads when cleaning fish. They make an excellent bait for crab nets and traps.

Three State Fish Records Recorded

Pat Toomey, local game warden said the Mississippi Chief of Fisheries had announced that three new state fish records have been recorded with the Game and Fish Department. Two of the fish setting records have never been listed in the books, while one broke an old record.

Establishing a record for channel catfish was James Lauderdale of Booneville. The fish was caught in a private lake. Lauderdale used spinning tackle with chicken heart for bait. The channel cat weighed five pounds, 10 ounces.

Another new record was set with a seven pound, eight ounce drum, caught at Ross Barnett Reservoir by Van G. Duncan of the U.S. Navy Recruiting Branch Station in Jackson. Duncan made the catch September 30.

A fish that broke an existing record was a long nose gar, caught by William P. McMullen, Jr., of Maben. The gar weighed 16 and one-half pounds, beating out the old record by one-half pound. Caught in the Grenada Lake spillway, the fish was 46 inches long.

There are other state records which haven't been set and others to be broken. Any fish is eligible, as long as it is caught on sporting tackle and weighed on certified scales with witnesses present.

NFMC Honors State Club

The Etude Club has received its third consecutive National Honor Certificate from the National Federation of Music Clubs.

An award was also given to the club for its yearbook which was rated third in the state.

The club is composed of piano and organ pupils who are now participating in the National Federation of Music Clubs Festival which will be held at Nashville, Tenn. in the spring of 1970.

One of the piano pupils, Stephen Winnard, received a six weeks scholarship this summer to the Sewanee Music Festival, Sewanee, Tenn. Stephen is a gold cup winner and the scholarship was given by the NFMC.

The Etude Club, sponsored by Mrs. Robert Teague, is the only club on the coast that is affiliated with the NFMC.

from fresh to increasingly convenient forms of products and vegetables is a major trend in a highly competitive market, he added.

Spending less of your "take home" pay for food, too, most Americans don't think so. Since 1960, however, personal income for the nation rose 69 percent, from $4.5 billion to $7.6 billion. During the same period, the portion of income spent for food declined from 20 percent to 16.6 percent.

Efficiency may be the key that will determine which food item will win out in the race for the largest share of the food budget," the specialist pointed out.

At the trend, between 1960 and 1967 the per capita consumption of fresh fruits declined from 108.8 to 90.7 pounds, and fresh vegetables dropped from 115.2 to 96.4 pounds.

At the same time, that of processed fruits moved from 11.2 to 11.0 pounds, and of processed vegetables from 10.8 to 10.7 pounds.

Per capita consumption of fruits, both fresh and processed, slightly during the 17 year period. That of processed vegetables increased 10 pounds.

The costs and convenience features of processed products continue to favor their expanded use at the expense of more costly fresh fruit and vegetable items, Mr. Pullin said.

With new processing methods to come, these will include freeze drying, vacuum drying, foam mat drying and aging. The result will be an ever greater variety of fruit and vegetable items to compete with each other.

Miss Donna Krebs Becomes Bride Of Fred Dougherty

A marriage of interest to friends in Hancock County was the recent wedding of Miss Donna Krebs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Krebs, and Mr. Fred Dougherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Burrus, all of Gulfport.

Father Patrick McDermott, Assistant Pastor of St. James Catholic Church, Mississippi City officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal off-white, satin faille gown featuring "Leg-O-Mutton" sleeves encrusted with seed pearls. Pearls also adorned the round neck line and the Empire waist. Her veil of illusion was held in place by double rosettes applied with tiny seed pearls.

R. E. Stanley of Gulfport. Ushers were Douglas Scott and Don Blackman both of Gulfport.

They wore dark olive crepe floor-length gowns fashioned with long sleeves and lace collars. Their bouquets were cascades of orange mums and wheat.

Miss Julie Smith of Gulfport served as flower girl and Robert Dobbs, Gulfport, was ringbearer.

Mr. Alexander was his son's best man and Bill Gordon and John Phillips, both of Wiggins, were groomsmen.

Mrs. George Campbell of Waveland served the cake and Misses Dian Sunrall and Becky Calloway presided at the punch table. The guest register was kept by Mrs. Brenda Gee, sister of the groom.

JUNIOR COLLEGES

Mississippi is known for having one of the nation's finest systems of junior colleges. A distinguishing characteristic of anything already good is that it continues to improve. Gifts Presented To Agnews From Grateful Gulf Coast

By Joe Pilot

Victor Mavor, Republican

County Chairman, acting for

Hancock, Jackson and Edson Counties presented gifts to both Vice President and Mrs.

Spiro T. Agnew at the conclusion of the "Dinner with Agnew" Monday evening at the Coliseum Banquet Room.

The Vice President accepted an oil painting depicting a shrimp boat designed and painted by artist Joe Moran of Biloxi. Moran, a graphic student of the well-known artist William Steere, is a resident of Bi-loxi and an artist of note within his own right. The plaque beneath the painting indicated the gift was from the people of the Mississippi Gulf

Coast and given in appreciation of the help given by Vice President Agnew following Hurricane Camille, August 17, 1968.

Mrs. Agnew accepted a brick, souvenir from the historic Church of the Redeemer, which, prior to the storm, stood on the corner of Beach Boulevard and Bellman Street in Bi-loxi.

The brick, No. 76, was passed on to appreciation in plenty, will serve as a remember.

A brick bell tower is all that stands of the Church of the Redeemer, however, services are now held in the original Church of the Redeemer to the rear where an historical marker announces "Founded in 1849, Jefferson Davis was a vestryman, church is site of many other

Confederate leaders. Present structure erected in 1876."

Nelson Hotel Reopens In Pass Christian

The Old Nelson Hotel

a landmark in Pass Christian owned and operated by Mrs.

Margaret McMath, has been repaired and partially re-opened following severe damage caused by Hurricane Camille.

The world's largest egg farm is located at Edwards,

Mississippi, and 1,085 acres of land. The operation includes 134 laying houses, 25 growing houses, 28 hatching houses, a feed mill, hatchery, a bowl processing plant, an egg-grading and packing plant.

During Hurricane Camille, located adjacent to the Hancock Bank, the Nelson Hotel, was the meeting place for surviving businessmen who tried to salvage what was left of the hotel and enjoyed the luxurious atmosphere, home-cooked meals and view of the Mississippi Sound. Town-folks

continued throughout the years to patronize the dining room and enjoy Margaret's lavish meals and the hotel during the changing times became "home" for steady roomers as well as those in need of temporary accommodations.

Only part of the hotel is ready at this time for guests,
